Original Poetry.

For the Republican.

A HEART AT EASE.

BY BECKIE HARRIS.

No numerous lands of broad decree,
Yielding rich and golden fruit—
No title of renown for me,
No hoarded wealth do I compute—
No shelt'ring roof above my head,
No carpet 'neath my feet—
Save the blue sky, the stars own bed,
And mossy grass so sweet;
O'er this I tread at early morn,
Beneath my arch of blue—
And Rothchild's, would I then scorn,
Compared with pearls of dew.

I'm not the one to crave a crown,
Nor rings of glittering hue,
Nor Alexander's great renown—
The star among so few.
Who viewed the world with haughty pride
And called it all his own;
And knew not there was more beside
The world that he had known.
Oh, no! I do not crave the care
These rich possessions bring—
Their choicest prizes bright and fair,
Beneath my feet I'd fling.

For the Republican.

The Lamp Post.

BY HUGH JAMES BENFIN.

PAPER I.

Titter, patter, drearily dropped the rain upon the pavement. The northeast wind was blowing chill, and I was sitting at the window, flattening my nose upon the pane, and looking up, hoping to see a rift in the clouds, with the promise of a change, for I was sick of the monotony of the slowly, steadily, constantly drop, drop, dropping, with its heavy, dull and changeless sound—of the ceaseless, chill, November rain. But the clouds were heavy, sombre and dark, as though again the flood-gates of heaven were let loose to pour upon the earth another deluge. Cloud-gazing, therefore, afforded me no relief, and with a dismal yawn, I turned my attention to the street, where my vision rested on a lamp-post across the pavement, and just opposite my window.

Abstractedly I gazed upon it with a mind as dull and heavy as the atmosphere without. The lamp-post was motionless, and so was I. It was entirely barren of all thought, and so was I But I was sheltered by a hospitable roof, yet fretting myself over the dismal state of the weather, while it was pelted by the driving fury of the storm, yet keeping up the imperturbable gravity of its demeanor. At last I became dimly conscious that I was passing into the wonderful land of dreams. Sleep was stealing o'er my senses, and I became oblivious to all that was passing around me. Still, strange to say, I seemed to hear the dropping of the rain, and to see the lamp post looming up before me.

For a time, nothing seemed changed-but presently the lamp on the top of the post began gradually to change its appearance, first, from an octagon, it grew to be round; then, just upon the top of this sphere, there sprung up a little tuft of yellow hair. This tuft gradually spread out until it covered all the sphere, except that part immediately facing me. This part, then, began to assume the out line of a human face, that of a funny little, old man. Forehead, eyes, nose, mouth, chin, and the round, fat cheeks, grew more and more distinct, until even the smallest wrinkle was plainly discernable. Next there sprang out upon the chin a little, gray tuft of whiskers, for all the world like the tuft on the under jaw of a goat, and then the figure smiled a merry smile that spoke him at once to be as kind hearted a little, old soul as you would meet in many a day's searching among the busy haunts of men.

He leered and winked at me in a most remarkable manner, as though desirous of picking up a conversation with me.

At first I was inclined to resent such familiarity on the part of an entire stranger, but then his grimaces were so very comical; his face so very cheery; his eyes so very bright, and his smile so very winning, that I threw aside all reserve, and thus addressed him:—

THE RIGHT KIND OF RELIGION.—Rev. Alexander Clark, in his "Gospel Trees," says: "Unless your religion changes you from a mummy to a man, makes you honest in business, pious behind counters, temperate at dinner tables, loyal to your country, affectionate to your family, neighborly at the ballot box, patient in affliction, humble, cheerful and hopeful everywhere and always; unless it links you in brotherhood to the poorest of God's children, unless it leads you on errands of mercy to hovels and hospitals and prisons, as well as to cushioned pews and sacramental boards, unless you love Christ on week days, as well as worship Him on Sabbath days—then your religion is spurious, hypocritical and abherrent—a refuge of lies! Its sounding brass and tinkling cymbal entice but the giddy-hearted, and warn the wise to beware."

A Wisconsin paper gives an account of the capture in northern Montana of "an animal of a species wholly unknown to naturalists, which is claimed by some to be a relic of the mastodon." This marvellous creature is only two years old, but stands seven feet high.

AT the age of fifty, Mr. Peabody was worth but $67,000. He amassed his great wealth in the last twenty-five years.

Odds and Ends.

Strange bed clothes—Three sheets in the wind.

Old men are mowed down, but babes are cradled.

A Missouri editor's name is Wufadam. His paper isn't.

Wanted—a fresh covering for the bells that have pealed.

Relatives that ought to make good pedestrians—Step sons.

Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle that fits them all.

Give your son a trade and you do more for him than by giving him a fortune.

Woman's Rights—If she cannot be Captain of a ship, she may command a smack.

The moment a man is satisfied with himself, everybody else is dissatisfied with him.

"Industry must prosper," as the man said who was holding the baby while his wife chopped wood.

"The rich," said the Jew, "eat venison because it ish deer. I eat mutton because it ish sheep."

The New York Herald calls the Women's Rights Convention at Cleveland, the "pantalunatic parliament."

The Baptists of Illinois have four thousand teachers and fifty thousand scholars in their Sunday schools.

A cranky bachelor says that there are not half so many self-made men nowadays as there are "self made" women.

"It is a standing rule in my church," said one clergyman to another, "for the sexton to wake up any man he sees asleep."

The merry wives of Cairo, Illinois, have formed a ten o'clock league, each member swearing to lock the street door at that hour of the night.

"I say, Jim, what mechanical work did you do fust?" asked one darkey of another. "Why, cut teeth, ob course," replied the other instantly.

"I think," replied the other, "that it would be better for the sexton, whenever a man goes to sleep under your preaching, to wake you up."

A boy in Arkansas came a good joke on his father lately. He whistled so near like a wild turkey that the old man followed him through the bushes a mile, and finally killed the boy.

That chap who was "lonely since his mother died," is all right now. His father married the "head" of a large family of girls, and they keep house for him, and give a party nearly every night.

A young man who was sent to Maine to examine the condition of a mill after the late freshet, reported by due course of mail as follows: "I find a dam by the mill-site, but no mill by a dam site."

A scholar was turned out of a public school in Massachusetts, because he was "too old." He is over forty-eight, and has a family of growing up children. He was ambitious, he said, to "ketch up with his boys and gals."

A sailor at the Brooklyn Navy Yard explained to a curious landsman, the other day, how prize money is divided. "It is sifted through a ladder," he said. "What falls through goes to the officers; what sticks, the sailors get."

A sharp old gentleman traveling out West got a seat beside his wife in a crowded railway carriage by requesting the young man who sat by her to "please watch that woman while he went into another carriage, as she had fits."

Conundrum by a clergyman at a dinner party: "Why don't they build mills on the lower Mississippi?" Answer: "Dam it they can't." Response by a lady of the party: "Why does the devil never skate?" Answer: "How in —— can he?"

"Paddy, my boy," said a gentleman to an Irishman, whom he observed fishing away in a favorite pool, "that must be a fine stream for trout." "Faith, and sure and it must be that same; for I have been standing here this three hours, and not one of 'em will stir out of it."

Two colored gentlemen playing billiards in Detroit quarreled. One hit the other a tremendous blow over the head with the butt end of a cue, which made the splinters fly, whereupon the assailed darkey paused to remark: "Now, Sam, stop, and let us reason dis yere thing a little."

"Bridget, how came you to burn the bread so?" "Och! an' is it burned it is? Sure thin, ma'am, but it's no fault of mine, for wasn't you afther tellin' last thing afore you wint out, a large loaf must bake one hour, an' I made three loaves, so I baked 'em three hours jist; for what else should I do?"

Women's Rights flourish in Cincinnati—so says a journal of that city, and, by way of proof, reports that "early a few mornings since three women were discovered in the act of of robbing a man whom they had thrown down upon the pavement. With the accustomed impunity of professionals, they escaped after the alarm had been given."

An Irishman recently stopped at a hotel in Des Moines, Iowa, where pretty big bills were charged. In the morning the landlord made out the amount of damages and presented it to Pat. After he had glanced over it, the latter looked the landlord in the face, and exclaimed:

"Ye put me in mind of a snipe."

"Why?" asked the landlord.

"Because ye're very nigh all bill."

Select Miscellany.

Danger of Delay.

At the time of revivals of religion in one of the cities of our country, during last winter and spring, there lived a young man who, though he had been religiously educated by a pious mother, neglected to attend any of the extra meetings of the churches till near the last. Then, however, he was induced, he can hardly tell why, to attend a morning prayer-meeting. In that meeting a lady rose and asked prayers for the conversion of her son, not knowing that he was in the room. Then the son rose and asked prayers for himself. This so affected our young friend, that he sprang to his feet, scarcely knowig what he was doing, and said he felt that it would be wrong to ask Christians to pray for him, as he had so long resisted the influence of the Holy Spirit. This remark did, of course, interest Christians, who earnestly prayed for his conversion. These prayers were, in a few days, answered in the hopeful conversion of our young friend. He, in turn, as is common in such cases, felt an ardent desire for the conversion of his associates in sin.—Among these was an intimate friend, whom I will call C. His efforts with him were unremitted, constantly placing before his mind the beauties of a holy life, and striving to win him from the pleasures of sin, urging him, at every opportunity, to give his heart to Christ. To these exhortations C. always listened with respectful attention often accompanied his friend to meeting, and seemed almost persuaded to seek an interest in Christ. And, O, that I could leave the subject here full of hope. But no; truth compels me to proceed. On a Sabbath evening, near the close of summer, our young friend met C. and another young man in the street. It was Sabbath evening. He invited both to his room, and there renewed his efforts to convince them of the great superiority of the pleasure derived from obedience to the commends of God to those of an opposite character, bringing to his aid all the truths at his command to enforce his argument. He then prayed with and for them, earnestly commending their case to God. C. listened to the last and then replied,—T. you have many times conversed with me on this subject, and I know you are in the right, and should I die as I am, I should be lost. But I am young, and must have my fun, and I shall make up my mind to take the risk and not pay attention to religion at present. He was a brakeman on the railroad. On the next evening, as the train was coming into the city where C. lived, near the depot, he fell from the car upon which he was stationed, the train passed over him, he was fatally injured, the surgeons gave no hope that he would live but a short time. His friend T. was soon at his side. When C. saw him, he said: You see T. that my fun was of short duration. He was urged to look to Christ even then. But he replied, too late, and soon expired.

The Lawyers and the Cats.

Two Arkansas lawyers were domesticated in the rude hotel of a country town. The hotel was crowded, and the room alloted to our two heroes was also occupied by six or eight others. Shake-down beds, enough to accomodate the guests, were disposed about the room, against the four walls, leaving an open space in the centre of the apartment.

Judge Clark lay with his head to the north, on one side, and Judge Thomas lay with his head to the south, on the other side of the room. So far as that room was concerned, it might be said that their heads represented the north and south poles, respectively.

All the other beds in the room were occupied. The central part of the room was deemed neutral ground, in which the occupants of the different beds had equal rights. Here, in picturesque confusion, lay the boots, hats, coats and breeches of the sleepers. There were no windows, and though the door was open, there being no moon, the night was very dark in that room.

The wily lawyers, who had been opposing counsel in a case tried in the town court that day, and had opposed each other with the contumacity of wild pigs, were now the very incarnations of meekness, for when the hungry swarm of mosquitoes settled down and bit them on the one cheek, they slowly turned the other to be bitten also.

But hush! hark!

A deep sound strikes the ear like a rising knell!

"Me-ow-ow!"

Judges Clark and Thomas were wide awake, and sitting bolt upright in an instant.

Again the startling cry:

"Ye-ow, ye-ow!"

"There's a d——d cat!" whispered Clark.

"Scat, you!" hissed Thomas.

Cat paid no attention to these demonstrations, but gave vent to another yowl.

"Oh, Lord!" cried Clark, "I can't stand this! Where is she, Thomas?"

"On your side of the room somewhere," replied Thomas.

"No, she's on your side," said Clark.

"Ye-ow-ow-ow!"

"There, I told you she was on your side," they both exclaimed in a breath.

And still the "yowl" went on.

The idea now entered the heads of both the lawyers, that by the exercise of certain strategy they might be enabled to execute a certain flank movement on the cat, and totally demoralize him. Practically each determined to file "a motion to quash" the cat's attachment for that room.

Each kept the plan to himself, and, in the dark, unable to see each other, prepared for action.

Strange as it may appear, it is nevertheless true, that the same plan suggested itself to both. In words, the plan would be about as follows;

The yowler is evidently looking and calling for another cat, with whom he has made an appointment. I will imitate a cat, and this cat will think t'other cat's around. This cat will come toward me, and when he shall have arrived within reach, I'll blaze away with anything I can get hold of, and knock the mew-sic out of him.

So each of the portly judges, noiselessly as cream comes to the surface of the milk, hoisted himself onto his hands and knees, and, hippopotamus fashion, advanced to the neutral ground occupying the central portion of the room.

Arriving there, Judge Clark selected a boot-jack, and Judge Thomas a heavy cow-hide boot, from the head, and settled themselves down to the work.

Clark tightened his grip on the boot-jack, throwing up his head, gave vent to a prolonged and unearthly "Ye-ow-ow!" that would have reflected credit upon ten of the largest kind of cats.

"Aha," thought Thomas, who was not six feet away, "he's immediately close around. Now I'll inveigle him!" and he gave the regular dark night call of a feminine cat.

Each of the judges now advanced a little closer, and Clark produced a questioning "Ow-ow!"

Thomas answered by a reassuring "Pur-ow! pur ow!" and they advanced a little more.

They were now within easy reach and, each imagining the cat had but a moment more to live, whaled away, the one with his boot, the other with his boot-jack.

The boot took Clark square in the mouth, demolishing his teeth, and the boot-jack came down on Thomas' bald head just as he was in the midst of a triumphant "Ye-ow!"

When lights were brought the cat had disappeared, but the cat-astrophe was in opposite corners of the room, with heels in the air, swearing blue streaks.

TRUE RELIGION.—A life of religion is a life of faith, and faith is that strange faculty by which man feels the presence of the invisible, exactly as some animals have the power of seeing in the dark.—This is the difference between the Christian and the world. Most men know nothing beyond what they see; their lovely world is all in all to them—its outer beauty, not its hidden loveliness. Prosperity, adversity, sadness, it is all the same, they struggle through it all alone, and when old age comes, and the companions of early life are gone, they feel that they are solitary. In all this deep, strange world, they never meet, or but for a moment, the spirit of it all who stands at their very side. And it is exactly the opposite of this that makes a Christian. Move where he will, there is a thought and a presence which he cannot put aside, he is "haunted forever by the eternal mind." God looks out upon him from the clear sky, and through the thick darkness—is present in the rain-drop that trickles through the branches, and in the tempest that crashes down the forest. A living Redeemer stands beside him, goes with him, talks with him as a man with his friend. The emphatic description of a life of spirituality is—"Enoch walked with God."

TOUGH NOT.—A young man had been addicted to the habit of using intoxicating liquors to excess, but reformed. He was surrounded by favorable circumstances, his parents wealthy, his business prosperous, moreover, he was engaged to an accomplished young lady.—The evening of the wedding came—friends were assembled, and the ceremony performed. There were kindly wishes, witty compliments, and merry jokes. Soon refreshments were brought, and wine handed the young man; but he kindly, yet firmly refused. Here friends gathered around, and playfully called him the "Young Teetotalist." Still he, fearing the results, and knowing that his only security lay in total abstinence, was unmindful of their words. Then his father-in-law, rather indignant at his refusal, urged him; but he again declined. At that moment his smiling, beautiful bride pressed him to drink one glass, only one, for her sake. Alas! the power of resistance was gone! He yielded. That glass created a burning thirst for more. Soon he became HOLLIDAYS.—There will be no paper issued from this office next week, from the fact the holidays are here, and the foreman, jour, devil, and boss all wish to enjoy themselves.

A Word with Our Patrons and the Republicans of Centre County.

This number closes the first volumn of the REPUBLICAN. We avail ourselves of this opportunity to thank the people for their kindly and generous support.

We have no complaints to make, for certainly we have met with the most unparalleled prosperity. Nobly and manfully have the Republicans of Centre aided us in our enterprise, declaring thereby the necessity of a live, vigorous, reliable and energetic Republican journal in the county.

For the last six or eight years, or from the year 1862 to the beginning of the year 1869, the Democratic Watchman, filled with treason, with anti-war doctrines, and with vulgar and devilish literature, circulated all over the county without let or hindrance, without any one to contradict its falsehoods or to expose its rottenness. Its Editor, Mr. Meek, following in the wake of such treasonable, false-hearted, anti-Democratic and anti-patriotic men as Vallandigham, Wallace, Woodward & Co., permitted no opportunity to pass without attacking the friends of the Government. Consequently every number was filled with appeals to the people to resist the draft; with the most treasonable and wicked doctrines; with abuse of the purest and best American Statesmen; with tirades upon the soldiers—the "Boys in Blue"—and encomiums upon the rebel General Lee and the confederate soldiers; with low and vulgar abuse of every loyal man, and especially, of every christian minister who, in obedience to the Scriptural injuction of rendering "unto Ceasar the things that are Ceazars, and unto God the things that are Gods," came out manfully on the side of the Government, and against the slave holders rebellion. No pure man—no loyal and patriotic man—no minister—no faithful soldier could think as Meek thought, and, therefore, they each, in their turn, were made to suffer from the shafts hurled upon them by this treasonable and modern Ajax. The Democratic majority was increasing in the county every year, and the Court House Ring had become imperious, haughty, powerful and saucy.—The Ring and Meek owned the Democratic party, and the Republican party (we appeal to the people for the truth of what we assert) was, or might as well have been without an organ.

In January last we commenced the publication of the REPUBLICAN.—Daily and weekly our list increased, until we now have upon our subscription book 1672 bona fide subscribers. Without being egotistical, we must say we have made a pretty decent Editor of Mr. Meek, and the Watchman has toned down considerably, and notwithstanding the fact that it is yet filled with falsehoods, they are not such whoppers as formerly, and, therefore, powerless.

In the last campaign our party came within two hundred and twenty-five votes of electing half our ticket, while the majority against Governor Geary was less than it was in 1866, or, in other words, Centre is the only county in the State, in which Governor Geary did better in 1869, than in 1866, all of which we consider a great victory, when we remember that over 300 Republican voters remained away from the polls. Our vote was increased by honest Democrats voting our ticket.—Hundreds of them will do the same next fall.

In view of these facts, friends, we promise you the redemption of Centre county from Democratic misrule within the next two years, and to this end, we respectfully solicit the continuance of your support and encouragement.

Strange, Isn't It?

Every person knows that it is impossible for a man in a miscellaneous crowd to engage in denunciations of murderers, horsethieves, or any other kind of thieves, without making said murderers and thieves feel that every word of the whole conversation is intended for them.

So it is with Meek. Last week, in answer to some of the Watchman's vain boasting, we had occasion to say "if we had the opportunity to play 'pincher' and 'rooster' in Harrisburg for two or three winters we might, perhaps, be able to erect brick buildings, &c." Our readers will perceive that we did not say that Meek had played "pincher" and "rooster" while in Harrisburg, disgracing Centre county as her representative. Yet, upon the principle by which all thieves are governed, Meek thought we meant him, of course, or upon that other principle, as stated by Shakespeare, that "Conscience makes cowards of us all," Meek applies it all to himself, thus acknowledging that he is guilty—that he did play "pincher" and "rooster," and that his brick building was built out of his ill-gotten gains. We did not say so; but we ask every intelligent man if Meek does not admit it by his ungentlemanly and blackguard reply. Yes, Meek, you have established your own reputation as a "pincher" and "Rooster," and this explains the "milk in the cocoanut" or the reason why James Burns, Esq., was so anxious to have you returned to Harrisburg this winter. But the people couldn't see it, and poor Meek was Mired.

"THE FOES OF SOCIETY."

A Sensational Sermon on Sensational Journalism.

Our readers, by this time, have, no doubt, learned who Rev. Frothingham is. If not, they will soon know. He is the sensational preacher who officiated with Rev. Henry Ward Beecher at the Richardson-McFarland marriage and for so doing, called down upon his lawless and shameful conduct, the criticisms as well as the censure of both the Religious and Secular press of the country. He deserved all he got, and more. He knows his conduct was reprehensible and shameful, and, therefore, winces under the well-directed blows aimed, not so much at him, as at his unlawful and anti-Christian participation in a marriage which was in open violation of the laws of God and man. We have said he winces under the severe but merited excoriations of the press; but he is too proud and fool hardy to acknowledge his error.

On Sunday the 12th inst., he preached a sermon on the "Foes of Society," which, for the most part, was devoted to the press. He is said to have been exceedingly savage, and demonstrated not only to his hearers, but to the world, that he is as Christless as the religion he teaches; that he possesses not one particle of Christian charity. "Charity suffereth long and is kind; charity envyeth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth, beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things," and although Rev. Frothingham should speak with "the tongues of men and of angels and have not charity," he is, on the authority of the Bible, nothing but "sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

Forgetting the sacredness of the pulpit, the high and honorable character of his calling, and in open profanation of the Sabbath, he lets his angry passions rise, and vents his spleen and vituperation upon editors, whom he classifies among the "cold-blooded" foes of society. We copy as follows:

"Sometimes the cold-blooded man "is an editor. It is his business, as "an editor, to sell his paper. It is in "the market. To sell his paper, he "must attract the multitude; but, to "do that, he must create a sensation; "and, in order to do that, he has his "spies through society—his reporters "and 'interviewers,' who waylay gentlemen in the street, intrude upon "the sacredness of homes, pass into "parlors and lurk around chamber "doors and libraries of good men and "women; and to drag out some secret, and extort something from men "to be used against themselves, their "wives, neighbors, or friends, is part "of their business. If no story is told "them vituperation is dealt in; and "if the story is deemed unsuitable, it "is misrepresented by the reporter "when he leaves the door. Sometimes the editor is an atheist, and "panders to the passions of the lower "class of Roman Catholics, and would "seek to arrest a clergyman in order "to rescue an assassin from a merited "doom or to blast the reputation of a "defenseless woman. If the press "were noble and worthy; if it really "sought to educate the people; if it "really meant to improve the condition "of the community, by vindicating "truth and espousing the cause of "justice, it would be too powerful a "despotism. If people could trust the "press and give their reason over to "it, the press would dominate every "other influence. But, because of its "wickedness, people pay no heed to it "and cast its slanders off. If it were "noble it would not do these things—"spying into secrets, dragging the "private interests before the world.—"Are they not the moral foes who carry falsification to the dignity of a "science, and bring malignity to the "perfection of an art?"

In giving utterance to the above, we presume the Rev. Frothingham had, in his minds eye, the Police Gazette, or the Days Doings, as these papers are to the newspaper world about what Rev. Frothingham is to the great body of Christian ministers—a scab, a tumor, a running sore, an eating cancer, a disgrace, a cheat, a humbug, a semi-infidel, an atheist in disguise.

How can he be anything else, when we take into consideration the fact, that he denies the main link in the great chain of the Christians creed—the Divinity of Christ.

A minister—a preacher of a Christless religion—is certainly not the man to indulge in bitter epithets, or in pouring vituperations upon the press; but is most emphatically the proper man to assist in lawless marriages, and to give utterances to blasphemous sentences in his prayers. We write nothing in malice. We hope Mr. Frothingham may repent and be saved. To this end we will close these strictures in the language of the Apostle: "Therefore I write these things being absent, lest being present I should use sharpness, according to the power which the Lord hath given me to edification and not to destruction."

The Chester Republican gets credit for the following ingenious definition of credit—"A wise provision by which Sheriffs and Constables get a living."

The Next Legislature.

The Contest for the Treasuryship—Necessity for Reform—The Bellefonte REPUBLICAN Sustained—Voice of the Republican Press of Pennsylvania.

The Greensburg Herald, which has not heretofore been in favor of the reform movement, but quite the reverse, is now beginning to see the necessity of reform. After a review of the situation and a genteel and logical defense of Mr. Mackey, the present State Treasurer, (against whom, by the way, we have no personal animosities) gives utterance to the following strong and sensible points:

"When the Legislature assembles, should they adopt the policy of putting new men—worthy and fit—into all the position they by law fill, we shall not only be content but rejoice. In that case, as we before took occasion to say, our own Borough has the man for State Treasurer, in the person of Geo. F. Huff, Esq. We can conscientiously say—that those who vote for him, need never fear of being assailed in the public prints for voting for one who could make an improper approach to any one for his support, or would fail to make a high toned officer, whose integrity and capacity would remain unsullied. Outside of Mr. Huff, we do not know who our representatives may be in favor of or will support. We have not had a word with them on that or any other subject that may possibly be before them. We confidently hope and trust, however, that on this and every other question both of legislative business proper, and especially as to whom they shall support for any position to be filled by that body—they will exercise their own discretion and judgment, and not allow themselves to act on the hints or suggestions of any one, who in pursuance of custom for years past, may assemble himself at Harrisburg, in no ostensible official position, and hang around to help this man or that man to a position, this bill or that bill, and fill his pocket with illgotten gains, 'pinched' out of the interested parties, for services, at the expense of the character, it may be, of the purest representative in the body, whom he may have innocently and unsuspectingly persuaded to support his pet measure as a matter of policy. Beware of all such—come from what quarter they may. They hail from all points, and are apparently innocent chaps: yet scores of them have in the past filled their own pockets just that way, while the representatives, who innocently did the work for him, remained pure—uncontaminated by a single ill-gotten cent, goes home only to be repudiated by his constituents. After all the noise and blow on this and kindred subjects, this, unfortunately, is very often the real history of the dissatisfaction with the doings of representatives. 'Be ye, therefore, wise as serpents and harmless as doves,' gives the hint to the only true policy to avoid the rocks on which many have stranded. In the earliest days of our history, when only members and Senaters went to Harrisburg to make laws, it was not so. It is otherwise now."

The Altoona Tribune, independent in politics, and a paper possessing great influence throughout the State, says:

"Our former townsmen, George F. Huff, Esq., is being strongly urged for the position of State Treasurer, by his friends in various portions of the State, and is developing an amount of strength which cannot fail to alarm his older competitors. If ability, integrity, honesty and youthful energy, were to be the winning cards with our Legislative Solons, George's election would be a foregone conclusion, and the tax-payers would reap the benefits of having the State Treasury wisely and economically administered."

The Huntingdon Globe, a most excellent and ably edited paper, without expressing its preferences for any particular candidate for the State Treasuryship, makes use of the following somewhat amusing, but nevertheless, strong, figurative language:

"We hope for the credit of the party and the State, that the Republican members of the coming Legislature, will act with decency and respect in the organization of their respective bodies, and not act like a parcel of hogs, each one slobbering over the other, in his haste to snap up the choicest tit-bit, of which there are so many about our legislative halls. We are not of those who are eternally howling about the corruptions of our Legislature, but cannot shut our eyes to the fact that much is done which ought not to be done, and hope that many of the existing evils may be corrected. The present Legislature can do much toward this end, and we trust that it may be done."

Horace Greeley.

We learn from a statement published in the Democratic Watchman, signed by W. H. H. Brainard and J. W. Furey, that the great journalist and philosopher of the century, is to lecture in Bellefonte, on January 25th, 1870. This is right; but there is one sentence in the statement, as published in the Watchman, to which we object. It reads thus:

"The fame of Horace Greely is co-extensive with the English language, "and though one of the most erratic, "he is certainly one of the most remarkable men of the age."

How our friend Brainard could be induced to sign such a mixture of sense and nonsense, of truth and falsehood, of positive assertions, with as positive contradictions, all in the same sentence, we cannot imagine.

The fame of Horace Greeley is not only "co-extensive with the English language;" but co-extensive with all languages, people's and tongues, and while it may be true that Mr. Greeley is not infallible, the assertion that he is "one of the most erratic" men of the age, is basely and meanly false, because promulgated, not ignorantly, but with the bright and effulgent rays of the light of the 19th century shining upon the very paper upon which it was written, proclaiming Horace Greeley "one of the most remarkable men of the age."

We are sorry our friend Brainard has committed himself to such an opinion of Horace Greeley, and signed his name to such a jumble of words, sense, nonsense, "erratic" rhetoric, miserable logic and Democratic hotch-potch. We hope, however, he may be more careful in the future, and not let Furey pull the wool over his eyes for the purpose of stabbing the reputation of Mr. Greeley.

We hope that Everybody will come and hear Horace Greeley, and satisfy themselves that he is not only the greatest journalist, but the greatest man in America to-day.

PERSONAL.—The Hon. Samuel Calvin, of Hollidaysburg is spoken of as the successor of the Hon. Daniel J. Morrell, of Cambria county, for the next Congress. Mr. Calvin, at one time represented this county in Congress in connection with Blair Huntingdon and Mifflin counties. We are not now in Mr. Calvin's Congressional District; but we know him personally and well. He is a warm-hearted, clever man, a true friend, never violates his honor, or his word, either in business or politics—is an able Statesmen, a strong tariff man, and would make a first-class representative.

BEST CABINET ORGANS
AT LOWEST PRICES
That the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet and Metripolitan Organs are the Best in the World is proved by the almost unanimous opinion of professional musicians, by the award to them of Seventy-Five Gold and Silver Medals or other highest premiums, at principal industrial competitions within a few years, including the Medal at the Paris Exposition, and by a sale very much greater than that of any similar instruments.—This company manufacture Only First-class Instruments, and will not make "cheap organs" at any price, or suffer an inferior instrument to bear their name. Having greatly increased their facilities for manufacture, by the introduction of new machinery and otherwise, they are now making BETTER ORGANS than Ever Before, at increased economy in cost, which, in accordance with their fixed policy of selling always at least remunerative profit, they are now offering at Prices of Inferior Work. Four Octave Organs, Plain Walnut Case, $50. Five Octave Organs, Double Reed, Solid Walnut Case, carved and paneled, with FIVE STOPS (Viola, Diapason, Melodia, Flute, Tremulant), $125. Other styles in proportion.
Circulars, with full particulars, including accurate drawings of the different styles of organs, and much information which will be of service to every purchaser of an organ, will be sent free, and postage paid, to any one desiring them.

LORILLARD'S "UREKA"
Smoking Tobacco is an excellent article of granulated Virginia.
—Wherever introduced it is universally admired.
—It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.
LORILLARD'S "YACHT CLUB"
Smoking Tobacco has no superior; being deodorized it cannot injure nervous constitutions, or people of sedentary habits.
—It is produced from selections of the finest stock, and prepared by a patented and original manner.
—It is very a romatic, mild, and light in weight—hence it will last much longer than others; nor does it burn or sting the tongue, or leave a disagreeable after taste.
—Orders for genuine, elegantly carver Meerschaum Pipes, silver mounted, and packed in neat leather pocket cases, are placed in the Yacht Club brand daily.
LORILLARD'S CENTURY
Chewing Tobacco.
—This brand of Fine Cut Chewing Tobacco has no superior anywhere.
—It is, without doubt, the best chewing tobacco in the country.
LORILLARD'S SNUFFS
Have been in general use in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.
—If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them.
—They are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere
—Circulars mailed on application.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, Dec. 22, 1869.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

Two MUSICAL and Literary entertainments, under the auspices of the Academy, will be given the citizens, at Reynolds New Hall; one on Thursday Eve., Dec., 23; the other on Christmas night. Doors open at 7. Exercises begin at 7½.

A. B. Hutchison has been commissioned Deputy Escheator, by Auditor Gen'l Hartranft, to take charge of the escheated estate of Patrick Brew, late of Milesburg, deceased.

OFFICERS of Bellefonte Lodge, No. 268, A. Y. M., elected Tuesday, Dec 14th, 1869, to serve one year from St. John's day, Dec. 27th, W. M., A. B. Hutchison; S. W., Geo. M. Yocum; J. W., Adolph Loeb; Sec'y, E. M. Blanchard; Treasurer, Isaac Mitchell.

SO THEY SHOULD.—We are pleased to learn that, in consequence of so much having been said by the honest portion of the Pennsylvania press against the corruption "ring" at Harrisburg, the members of the next Legislature have become exceedingly Huffy

SNOW.—On Saturday last, about 7 o'clock in the morning, it commenced snowing, and continued to snow all day, until about 7 o'clock in the evening.—Several of our friends measured it at that time, and report that it measured 18 inches deep. Sleighing, therefore, is good.

FESTIVAL.—The members of the M. E. Church, and their friends, will hold a Festival, at Beech Creek, Clinton county, from December 29th, to January 1st, inclusive, for the benefit of the M. E. Church at that place. It is hoped that all lovers of good order and Christianity will attend.

The Musical Convention will, no doubt, be a grand affair. Tickets, 50 cts.

A REMINISCENCE.—At an early day, quite a severe battle was fought at the big spring in this place, between the whites and Indians. Several Indians were killed, and the remainder driven up the Sinnemahoning. The whites were led by Capt. Sam. Brady and Peter Grove, two of the greatest Indian killers ever known. The Indians were led by that renowned warrior and Chief, Bald Eagle, who had his nest near where Milesburg is located.

TURKEY.—We want no smut machine, nor any hybredized Bohemian individuals to boast of their turkeys, or even to hint turkey to us. We don't wish to have any communication with you, either verbal or written, on the subject of turkey. Thanks to the great big heart (big enough for three) of Zimmerman Bro's & Co., we have a Christmas turkey. Zimmerman Bro's & Co. understand their business. They appreciate the virtue of printer's ink. We appreciate the turkey. You bet. Who says turkey for New Years dy!

NO HUMBUG.—We do not wish to inform you, reader, that Dr. Wonderful, or any other man, has discovered a remedy that cures all diseases of mind, body or estate, and is designed to make our sublunary sphere a blissful paradise, to which heaven itself shall be but a side show, but we do wish to inform you that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy has cured thousands of cases of Catarrh in its worst forms and stages, and the proprietor will pay $500 for a case of this loathsome disease that he cannot cure. It may be procured by mail for sixty cents, by addressing R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale at most Drug Stores everywhere. dec15-2t.

REVIVAL.—Rev. Jas. Mullen, Pastor of the M. E. Church, in this place is holding a protracted meeting. It has been in progress over one week. Several penitents have been at the alter, and others have asked the prayers of the Church. Mr. Mullen, we understand, is without help, having to do all the preaching, all the singing and all the praying, except the aid he receives from the "Marys," or sisters of the church.—We hope the good work may go on, and also hope that the brethren in Christ may come to the relief of Mr. Mullen, and come up to the help of the Lord—to the help of the Lord against the mighty. Hundreds of people, both old and young, are out of the ark of safety, who should be gathered into the folds of the Church. Zion, awake, arise!

BEAUTIFUL SIGN.—Loeb, May & Loeb have given another evidence of their enterprise, and their determination to excel, by placing above their store-door one of the most beautiful signs we have ever seen. Everybody stops to look at it—everybody admires it, and every person exclaims: "Oh! who painted this magnificent sign? "Painted in the city, of course," says one fellow who always purchases everything he wants in the city, instead of patronizing home industry. "No person in Bellefonte could paint such a sign," says a third, who entertains the idea that no good can come out of Nazereth, and that you must always go away from home to find talent. Poor fogy! his style, if he is not careful, will break his neck. "That sign must have been painted in town," says a fourth, "because Loeb, May & Loeb, never employ foreign mechanics, when they can find as good, if not better, at home."—The last speaker was right. That sign was painted at home—right here in Bellefonte, and by whom? Why, by J. G. Kurtz, to be sure. J. G. Kurtz formerly Editor of the Central Press, is the only man in all this country who can paint such a sign. He has painted all the handsome signs in town; but there is nothing to equal the new sign of Loeb, May & Loeb, in Central Pennsylvania. Mr. Kurtz is certainly master of the art, and all persons wishing signs should apply to him.

OUR CHRISTMAS PRESENT TO OUR ANNUAL ADVERTISING PATRONS.—This number closes our first year, or volume of the REPUBLICAN. Nobly have our business men, merchants and mechanics, sustained it. Its success, we think, is unparalleled in the history of country newspapers. For this we thank our patrons—the community generally. We have spared no pains, gentlemen, to keep your business prominantly before the people, and now, as an evidence of our regard and esteem for you, as well as of our appreciation of your kindness to us, we give you one general closing notice, as a Christmas present, it being the best offering we can find space for at present. We ask our readers to peruse the list of names with care, assuring you that it will be to your advantage to consult the columns of the REPUBLICAN before making any purchases. A MODEL PARLOR MAGAZINE.—For beauty of typography, artistic engravings and high-toned literary articles, together with a large and beautiful display of the Fashions, Demorest's Monthly Magazine is certainly unsurpassed. The January number, just received, in addition to unusual holiday attractions, has a fine steel Portrait of both Mr. and Mme Demorest. The rich display of novelitie, offered in Demorest's Monthly would seem to be enough to secure a circulation sufficient to satisfy its publishers, but in addition we see they propose to give a very large and fine engraving to each subscriber, valued at $10. The Engraving alone would make a very appropriate Holiday or Birthday gift; but when added to the costly Picture the best Parlor Magazine is included, to be a monthly reminder of the friendly feeling of the giver, there is certainly no better way of investing $3.—Address Demorest's Monthly, 838 Broadway, N. Y.

WILD GEESE.—On Sunday morning last two wild geese flew over our town. They were, evidently, hunting a warmer climate, but had lost their course.—They were going directly East. What does it mean? Can any of our prognosticators explain?

Everybody should go and see J. C. Burns, the Artist, at the Brockerhoff House.

UNPRECEDENTED DISCOVERY.—In this fast age of fast steam locomotion and electricity, fast men, fast women and fast horses, and other fast institutions, this place, the city of Bellefonte in perspective, has the honor, or otherwise, of being the first place where wind-mills are run by waterpower. These nondescripts are in operation on High street, near the bridge.

HEAVY PORKER.—The Editor of the Jersey Shore Herald recently butchered a hog which, when dressed, weighed 481 pounds.—Gazette and Bulletin.

Do we understand the Local Editor of the Gazette and Bulletin to say that Mr Seely committed suicide? If so, poor Seely! Wonder why? He did not weigh so heavy when he left Bellefonte.

HEAVY.—Hon. John A. Gamble is fattening a hog that is estimated to weigh not less than 500 pounds when dressed, and it may possibly go a little more.—Gazette and Bulletin.

We can beat that in this county. Mr. Adam Wagner, miller at Rock Mills, Benner tp, brought one to town last week which weighed 502 lbs., and we learn that Mr. Frank Brown, Miller at Centre Furnace Mill, Harris tp., has one that he expects to weigh, when killed, over 700 lbs.

ADMITTED.—Our young friend, Capt. W. C. Holahan, was admitted to the Bar at the adjourned Court on Monday last. We understand that he passed a very creditable examination, and, with his application and energy, we have no doubt will make his mark in the profession.—On Tuesday evening, the Legal fraternity, with a few of his personal friends, were treated to an oyster supper at Smith's restaurant, which, empty tubs, cans, dishes and cigar boxes testify, was very highly appreciated. After supper, a number of short, appropriate impromptu addresses were delivered, in which Mr. Holahan led off in a rich, original poetical effusion, followed by G. H. Spang, Esq., who, in the most chaste and classic phraseology, welcomed Mr. Holahan to the toils, amenities and honors of the profession. Besides other speakers, M. A. Points, Esq., in his usual happy style, portrayed, in gaudy colors, the lights and shadows, struggles and triumphs of the young pilot on the legal sea.

Fulton county Republican please take notice of the whereabouts of "HOLAHAM."—Bedford Inquirer, Dec. 15th.

So we see our young friend has reached the goal. We, together with his numerous friends in Centre county, congratulate Mr. Holahan. He will make his mark. No man possessing his energy and ability can possibly fail.

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST ORGANS.—An illustration of the advantages of a large production of any article, enabling the manufacturer to avail himself of the aid of machinery and most complete division of labor, and so to produce the best work at lowest cost, is afforded by what the MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO. are now doing. It is well known that the Cabinet Organs of their manufacture have for some time enjoyed the reputation of being the best in the world; and the demand for them from all countries has so increased that the Company have now occasion to produce one hundred and forty organs per week.

This has enabled them to introduce a variety of ingenious machinery for the production of the various parts of the instruments by which they get increased perfection in their work, and make a considerable saving in the cost. It is a part of their system to sell always at least remunerative profit, depending on increased amount of business for a satisfactory result to themselves. Accordingly, they have recently reduced prices, and it is said, are now selling their famous organs at even less than it costs a small maker to produce inferior instruments. The public are thus the gainers by getting the best article at less than, without such advantages, they would have to pay for inferior work. This Company will not make the so called "cheap" organs at any price. All their work is of the very best.

THE WALLACE SISTERS.—The justly celebrated Wallace Sisters are coming to Bellefonte. They will be here on the 21st inst., and perform in Bush's Hall on the 21st, 22nd, 23d, 24th and 25th of December. We do not make a practice of noticing or puffing every company or travelling theatre which may find its way into our town, whether worthy, or unworthy; but we feel confident that we will not impose upon, or deceive our readers by recommending to their favorable consideration the Wallace Sisters. The press everywhere speak of their performances as highly entertaining, amusing and useful. The Harrisburg Telegraph, a first-class paper, and one which is very cautious as to whom it notices, speaks of the Wallace Sisters in its issue of December 9th, 1869, as follows.:

Quite a large audience assembled at Brant's lower hall last evening to welcome the Wallace Sisters on their return to this city. Misses Agnes and Jennie were the "bright stars" of the combination. The play presented was Robertson's beautiful comedy of "Caste," which was produced in splendid style. Mr. S. B. Villa, as Hon. George D'Alroy, sustained his reputation as a fine actor, while Miss Agnes Wallace, as "Polly," was excellent, and with her winning ways and vivacity won high encominms for her acting. Miss Jennie Wallace as "Esther," showed that she fully understood that character, and that she was an accomplished actress. The other characters were well sustained by the members of the company. The splendid dancing of the infant prodigies, Misses Minnie and Maud, was loudly applauded, and in order to gratify the audience, responded to several encores. This evening the laughable comic burlesque of "Fra Diavolo, or the Beauty and the Brigands, will be presented with Misses Agnes and Jennie Wallace, Mr. Villa and the whole company in the cast. The entertainment will begin with the farce of "Nan, or The Girl with Two Fathers," in which Jennie introduces her banjo solo. Minnie and Maud appear in a number of new dances. The management assure their patrons that nothing will be presented to offend the most fastidious. Do not fail to see the great company during their stay.

DRUGSTORE.—Frank S. Wilson, of the Diamond Drugstore, has just received from the city a large supply of fancy articles perfumeries &c, for the holidays.

CHESTER SPRINGS, Dec. 16, 1869.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—It will, no doubt, be gratifying to the friends of H. Hershberger in Centre county to learn that this amiable, energetic and industrious young man, who has been in our midst but a very short time, has won to himself many friends among us, by his earnest endeavors, at all times, to do us good by his presence.

On Thanksgiving day, according to appointment, the worthy gentleman delivered to us an oration suitable to the day and occasion. It was composed in his usually sublime style, and delivered with much feeling and energy, causing all present to feel that it was good for them to have assembled on such an occasion, and that the day was not spent without the giving of one thought to Him who preserved our nation from war, from pestilence, and from famine. But who, on the contrary, gave us peace, prosperity and happiness, during another year. He discoursed largely, and in glowing terms, on the lives and characters of Geo. Peabody, Amos Kendall, and others, which the records of the past year show are no more but in story. He closed by hoping that his tear-bedewed audience might be profited by their virtuous examples.

On last Sabbath evening the same gentleman also gave us a Temperance lecture, which was both interesting and instructive in the extreme. It is useless for me to state here that the young speaker did justice to himself and subject, as well as hearers, in this, as well as previous oration, both being delivered with great animation. Mr. H. manifests many excellent qualities desirable in a young man. His independence and resoluteness of character, no doubt, will make him an excellent and useful man in his day and generation.

Our friend is now engaged in the noble work of educating the posterity of those who sacrificed their lives in defence of their country in the late rebellion, by which (posterity) he can have the assurance of being loved and respected, by all who know him, as long as memory shall last. S. P.

For the Republican.

TRIP TO AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—Having occasion to visit in the vicinity of Centre Furnace and Agricultural College, it may not be uninteresting to read a few of the pleasing reflections experienced while there.

Tarrying over Sunday, we, with the good people, attended divine service at the Branch church where, report says, services last from 9½ a. m., till 2 p. m. This day the time was considerably abridged; but even had it been so long, time would pass very pleasantly with so good a people. Opening—practice of church music. Next comes Sundy-school, which is divided into two branches. The Juvenile department is in the basement, and superintended by Miss Lyon. The other is under the supervision of Wm. Thompson, Esq. In the latter it was our good fortune to be, and was much edified at the zeal manifested in the Scripture recitations. Parents, whose heads were frosted by age, sat side by side with those who, from their youthful appearance, might have been their grand children, all equally absorbed in the Scripture subject of their lesson. Each subject was fully discussed before another was taken up. At 11 o'clock Rev. Mr. Hamill, who officiated here over a quarter of a century, entered, and passed into the pulpit. He is an able preacher, and his members know how to appreciate him.

One of the most prominent citizens here, is Moses Thompson, Esq. He is one of the most genial, hospitable, and, pecuniarily speaking, solid men of the county. Men who have the capacity to manage well for themselves, would also be peculiarly capacitated to manage the affairs of the country. Why not give him a position in our national government? Two of his sons are proprietors of a private banking institution, located at Centre Furnace, who, for their close attention to business, their pleasing attention to their customers, and their strict integrity, merit our heartiest wish for abundant success.

It was also our good fortune to make the acquaintance of Prof. J. T. Rothrock, of the Agricultural College. His literary attainments and gentlemanly deportment make him a favorite with the students, and gain for him many friends.

Our old friend, James Jack, with his excellent betterhalf and daughter, know "how to keep hotel," and any not knowing their capacities of making their guests happy and at home, should lose no opportunity or time in going there and finding out for themselves. Disappointment in this case would be an exception.

The College year is about closing, and students and Professors are seeking enjoyment of another sort, and rest, to start anew, on the 15th February, when the school-year again commences. The prospects are very flattering for having a large class for the coming year.

Josh Billings.

THE HORNET.

The Hornet is an inflammible bugger, sudden in his impreshuns, and hasty in hiz conclusions, or end.

His natral disposition iz a warm cross between red pepper in the pod, and fusil oil, and his moral biss iz, "get out uv my way."

They have a long black boddy, divided in the middle by a waist spot, but their phisikal importance lies at the terminus of their rubburb, in the shape of a javlein.

This javlein is alwuz loaded, and stands reddy to unload at a minnut's warning, and enter a man az still az thought, as spry as litenin, and as full of melancholy as the toothake. Hornets never argy a kase; they settle awl ov their differences of opinyun by lettin their javelein fly, and are as surtain to hit az a mule iz.

This testy critter lives in congregations numbering about one hundred soles, but whether they are mail or feamale, or conservative, or matched in bonds of wedlock, or whether they are Mormuns, and a good many of them kling together and kepe one husband to save expence, I dont know or dont kare.

I never have examined their habits much, I never konsidered it healthy.

Hornets bild their nests whenever they take a noshun tu, and seldom are disturbed, for what would it profit a man to kill 99 hornets and hav the one hundredth one hit him with his javelin?

They bild their nests of paper, without any back doors to them or windows. They have but one place of admission, and the nest iz the same shape of an overgrown pineapple, and is cut up into jist as many bed rooms as there iz hornets.

It iz very simple to make a hornets' nest if you kan, but i will wajer enny man 300 dollarz that he kant bild one that he could sell to a hornet for half price.

Hornets are as bizzy az their second couzins, the bee, but whatever they are about the Lord only knows; they don't lay up any honey or enny money; they seem to be busy just for the purpose ov working all the time; they are alwuz in az much of a hurry az if they was goin for a docter.

I spose this uneasy world would grind around on its axle-tree onct in 24 hours if there want enny hornets, but hornets must be good for something, but I cant think now what it iz.

There haint been abug made yet in vain, nor one that want a good job. There is ever lots ov human men loafing around blacksmith shops, and cider mills, all over the country, that don't seem to be necesary for anything but to beg plug tobacco, and swear, and to steal water-melons, but you let the cholera break out once, and then yu will see the wisdom of having jist sich men laying around; they help to fill out.

Next tew the cockroach, who stands tew the head, the hornet haz got the most waste stummuk, in reference tew the rest of his body than enny ov the insek population, and here is another mystery; wat on arth duz a hornet want so mutch reserved corps for?

I have jist thought—tew carry his javelin in; this ye see, the more we diskover the more we afe apt to know.

It is always a good purchase tew pay out yer last surviving dollar for wisdum; and wisdum is like the mysterious hen's egg, it ain't laid in yure hand, but is laid away under the barn, and yu have got to sarch for it.

The hornet is an unusual kuss, he iz more haughty than he is proud, he iz a thoroughbred bug, but his breeding and refinement haz made him like sum other folk I kno ov, dissatisfied with himself and everybody else; too much good greeding ackts in this way sometimes.

Hornets are long-lived—I kant state jist how long their lives are, but I know from instinkt and observashun that enny kriter, be he bug or be he devil, who iz mad all the time and stings every good chance he can git, generally outlives all his nabers.

The only good way to get at the exact fiteing weight of the hornet is tew touch him, let him hit you once with his javelin, and you will be willing to testify in court that some one run a one-tined pitchfork into yer; and az for grit, i will state for the informashun ov thoze who hav'nt had a chance tew lay in their vermin wisdom az i hav, that one single hornet, who feels well, will brake up a large camp meeting.

What the hornets do for amusement is another question kant answer, but some ov the best read, and heavyest thinkers amung the naturalists say they have target excursions, and heave their javelins at a mark, but i don't imbibe this assershon raw, for i never knu any body so bitter at heart az the hornets are, to waste a blow.

There iz one thing that a hornet duz that i will give him credit for on my books, he alwuz attends tew his own bizziness, and won't allow enny boddy else tew attend tew it, and what he duz is always a good job, you never see them altering anything, if they make enny mistakes it iz after dark, and ain't seen.

If the hornets made half as many blunders az the men do, even with their javelins, every boddy would laugh at them.

Hornets are clear in another way, they have found out, by trieing, that awl they kan git in this world, and brag on, iz their vittles, and clothes, and you never see one standin at the corner ov a street, with a twenty-six inch face on, because sum banker had run oph, and took their money with him.

In ending oph this essa, I will cum to a stop by concluding that if the hornet was a little more pensive, and not so darned peremptory with their javelins, they might be guilty of less wisdum, but more charity.

But you kant alter bug natur, without spileing it for anything else, enny more than you kan an elephant's egg.

Keeping a Farm Journal.

No doubt there are farmers who commence business with a determination to keep a daily record of their operations on the farm, and the results of them. This resolve is carried into execution for a time, but after a while intermissions in these jottings occur, and finally cease altogether. This delinquency does not prove that the practice is not a good one, and as an incentive to perseverence, we would cite a case of a man who commenced farm life bareheaded, but eventually attained great wealth—a result he attributed in a great measure to a daily journalizing of his farm operations a practice kept up for forty-five years, and not then discontinued.

These daily memoranda were made in books of convenient size, each containing the records of a single year, and when full properly labelled and and filed away for future reference when desirable. They contained the number of fields farmed each year, the amount of labor bestowed, the actual yield, the names of the parties employed each day, the daily receipts for stock and farm products sold, money paid out, and for what purpose, the character of the weather, together with such reflections as the current news of the day suppliced. This journal was uniformly written on each night just before retiring to rest, but when the party was absent, as was occasionally the case, it was the duty of the person in charge to make the necessary memoranda each evening.

These records were often appealed to, to decide disputed points in regard to the weather and crops of particular seasons, and not unfrequently taken before the courts for the purpose of determining the date of particular transactions. At first these nightly records may prove rather irksome, but if the practice is kept up perseveringly for two or three years it becomes a habit pleasureable rather than otherwise, and profitable to the parties who steadily pursue it.—American Farmer.

Keeping Winter Pears.

No fruit is worse treated than the late autumn and winter pears. They are generally gathered before their time, and then kept in dry atmosphere. What wonder is it that fruit which should be melting and delicious, turns out to be a shriveled, tough and tasteless thing? Most late varieties hang on well, and should be allowed to remain until there is danger of hard frosts; they are to be carefully picked when dry, placed in boxes or barrels, and kept as cool as possible. It is not a good plan to take them to the cellar until the weather becomes so cold as to endanger their freezing.—When in the celler, the temperature must be kept as low as possible without danger of frost. Do not mix varieties in the same package. The different sorts have each their own time for maturing. A frequent examination will show how the process of ripening is going on, and the slower this progresses the finer the fruit is likely to be. When the proper changes have taken place within the fruit, it is indicated by a change in the color of the skin. When this commences the fruit may be taken in small quantities at a time to a warm room, to "finish off." We have seen even the despised and much abused Vicar of Winkfield, when treated in this manner, prove itself a most acceptable pear.—Exchange.

FARMING.—It is with farming as it is with every other business; it must be attended to or it will not pay. This is more so now than fomerly, For now machinery does the work of hand labor, and science is adding success which the common farmer cannot reach, hence he is found in the rear of profit and general success. There must be intelligence. The advancement of farming has made this so. "Skinning" land must be among the things that were. This, however, is less the case on the prairies than in the East. An old fashioned farmer stands but a poor chance there. He is constantly selling out to "better his condition," which is not done by buying another farm. He is generally glad to get rid of his land. We must, then, as the country improves, improve with it, and that by informing ourselves, both by reading and conversation with those who know.

A Philadelphia paper says that an eminent surgeon of that city had his horses washed in the morning with water in which one or two sliced onions had been steeped. He found that the flies kept at a respectable distance, while no harm was done to the animals. A separate bucket or vessel other than that used to water the horses, would be necessary, and great relief would be obtained at a small cost.

Chickens, to be made profitable, should be fed raw meat.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the Tune of "Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

Chorus, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of traveling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest prices.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality,

SEWING MACHINES

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE

OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful EUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

SEWING MACHINE

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE

Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufacturing machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a destined to win much favor in the HOUSEHOLD.

The machine which they now offer is quiet light-running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,

QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING,

FELLING, GATHERING,

are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it. Machines on hand for sale and exhibition, together with a full and complete assortmet of

as the machines for the machines, by
